What your sponsorship delivers

100 qualified leads
Matched to your target prospect criteria and delivered in a timely manner over a 4–6 month campaign.

Your licensed edition
Featuring only your company logo and profile, with perpetual content licensing rights for use in your own campaigns.

Targeted promotion
Reach restaurant decision makers and influencers through multiple media, email, advertising and distribution channels.

Two editions, one research foundation. Starfleet Media promotes the multi-sponsored content asset utilizing Velocity, our AI-powered campaign orchestration engine, to generate qualified leads. You also receive a separately branded edition with only your company logo on the cover and only your company profile in the appendix.

Participation and lead qualification

Starfleet Media manages market research (minimum 300 qualified survey respondents) and production of the content asset, as well as promotion and lead generation campaign execution. Your team provides feedback and suggestions during draft reviews. Your team also defines target prospect criteria. We verify and validate qualified leads and confirm their willingness to hear from your company. Records include buying authority and stated purchase intent and timing. Note: Survey responses are confidential and separate from campaign registrations.

Research and content development underway

Content focus: benchmarking best practices in purchasing, inventory control, recipe costing, demand forecasting and waste reduction, and understanding how top-performing organizations achieve optimal results.

These questions preview just some of the insights our research will uncover:

- Which purchasing and inventory practices distinguish top-performing restaurants?
- How do leading teams connect forecasts, recipe costs and stock counts?
- How do they measure food cost variance, waste and inventory accuracy?
